VOL. VIII. NO. 111 — FRESNO, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1894 — PRICE—5 CENTS

IS IT ESTEE OR BUDD?

Each Party Claiming a Victory.

ESTEE IS STEADILY GAINING

Budd Leading by 778 Votes With 227 Precincts Yet to Hear From.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 9.—From what appeared to be a certainty last night as to who had been elected governor of California, the situation has changed tonight to one of extreme uncertainty. Budd's plurality has been steadily dwindling as the returns came in from the country, until tonight, according to the returns collected by the Associated Press, he leads Estee by 778 votes, with 227 precincts to hear from. The Republicans have been greatly encouraged by this showing, and tonight are claiming the state for Estee with more confidence than ever.

The Democrats still insist that there is no doubt that Budd is elected, and claim to have received returns from San Francisco which have increased Budd's lead to 1355. The Republicans deny the correctness of these figures. To make the outcome still more doubtful the unrecorded precincts are in thirty-seven different counties, and no reliable conjecture as to how they will vote can be made. Taking Estee's gains during the day however, as a basis, if the same proportion continues, it would seem that he will be elected.

The latest returns indicate that in the First Railroad district Beckman, Rep., has a safe lead over Larue, Dem.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 9.—At the state headquarters of each party a gubernatorial victory is claimed. For the first time since the election, the rooms of the Republican state central committee are filled tonight with an enthusiastic crowd. Chairman P. B. Cornwall has returns from every county from which he claims a minimum plurality for Estee of from 200 to 500, and thinks this vote will be increased. Estee himself expressed confidence in his election and expects a plurality of from 900 to 1200. Cornwall claims that Estee has been defrauded of thousands of votes in San Francisco by Democratic judges and inspectors who, he believes, counted for Budd votes cast for Estee. If the final returns do not show a plurality for Estee the Republicans will demand a recount before the next legislature, where gubernatorial contested election cases must be heard. This it is claimed will show such gains for Estee in San Francisco as will overcome a Democratic plurality of 1000 should Budd secure such.

Secretary John Markley of the Democratic state central committee claims a plurality for Budd tonight of 2018, based upon private returns from all counties.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 9. — At midnight the Associated Press has received complete returns from 1907 precincts out of a total of 221 precincts in California, Budd's vote is 103,604, Estee 102,823, Webster 46,226. Budd's plurality, 778. In addition to these figures the Examiner claims to have returns from all except one precinct in San Francisco, which increase Budd's plurality in San Francisco from 11,226 to 11,703, which would increase Budd's total plurality in the state to 1355.

CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 9.—Two hundred and eighty-eight precincts in a total of 436 precincts in the First congressional district give Barham 10,901, Geary 10,153, Grigsby 5237.

NEWS FROM OLEANDER.

Personal Paragraphs and Items of Local Interest.

The Oleander packing house will close in a week or two.

Oleander was a lively place last Tuesday.

We have two baseball teams, a male and female. Both are ready to receive challenges from outside teams.

Our lodge of Good Templars will give their entertainment Saturday, November 10th. It promises to be a good one. Miss Nellie Boyd, G. W. Cartwright, W. A. Simmons, W. J. Godly and E. F. Mitchell will take part in the program, besides others. It will be held in the school house, free to all and no collection.

The Prohibitionists held a meeting here last Saturday evening. The music was furnished by H. Baird and the Easton chorus. The speaker of the evening was C. S. Taylor of Easton.

M. M. Harris made the last speech for the campaign here last Monday evening.

The Oleander foot ball club held the regular weekly meeting last Saturday evening, and the following players were selected to play the Fresno boys next Sunday: C. H. A. Davis, center rush; A. S. Langly, right guard; A. Wrightson, left guard; H. Kemp, right tackle; R. Wilson, left tackle; W. J. Godly, right end; F. Perry, left end; G. T. Elliott, quarter back; Captain J. S. Brandon, left half back; J. M. Ginlen, right half back; R. Fodley, full back.

The Oleander and Fowler baseball clubs crossed bats here last Thursday, and after a long game Oleander proved to be the victor by a score of 8 to 13.

Pratt of Fowler was the umpire and he is a good one, so the Oleander boys say.

We are glad to see William Yourn around with us after a long sickness.

Joe Copus left last Thursday for San Francisco and will make that city his future home.

Oleander was well represented at the Barton last Wednesday.

Lee Wriston returned home last week after two months visiting friends up north. JUNO.

Oleander, November 9, 1894.

THE OFFICIAL COUNT.

Election Returns to be Canvassed By the Supervisors.

On Monday, November 12th, the supervisors will make the official count of the election returns. They will not recount the ballots, but only the totals from each precinct. This will probably occupy several days, as there are many figures to be added in footing the columns.

The candidates who have been elected or defeated by small majorities will watch this official count with great interest, as the discovery of mistakes in two or three places may be sufficient to change totals. In most of cases, however, the pluralities are so great that there is little likelihood of enough errors being discovered to change the result.

The Markets.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 9.—Wheat—Strong; December, 92¾c; May, $1.00⅞c.

Barley—Strong; December, 90¾c; May, 98⅞c.

A SYSTEM NEEDED.

LOOSE METHODS IN THE RECORDER'S COURT.

No Prosecuting Witness in Petty Criminal Cases—An Example for Illustration.

The management of the recorder's court in this city is unsatisfactory. Not that Recorder Clark is in anyway to blame, for he claims that he has no authority to correct the abuse. The complaint lies in the manner in which trials are conducted, and the evidence presented in criminal cases.

It is generally understood that the policeman who arrests a man shall appear in court as a witness against him in order that the court may be informed of the nature of the offense, in order that justice be done and the prisoner be not punished too lightly or too severely.

But this mode of procedure is not found in the Fresno police court. An officer is especially detailed to bring the offenders from jail into court, and to swear to the warrant of arrest. He appears as prosecuting witness, and all he knows of the case is the charge as the record has it. This record, made by the arresting officers, simply gives the name of the offender and the charge. It often happens that one man is more boisterous and troublesome than others and his penalty should be in accordance with the crime. But in the management of cases in the Fresno city court no difference is made whatever. The lesser and greater offenders are treated alike, because there is no witness, in many instances, who can tell how serious or how trivial the offense was.

As an example of the point at issue, it may be stated that on the day before yesterday three men, who had held up Frank Elgan and A. J. Levorone, were released from custody through this system of trying men. They were brought down from the jail by the court officer, among several other men who were to be tried. Both the judge and officer, not knowing the seriousness of the charge, and unacquainted with the facts of the case, let them go on floaters, only a charge of disturbing the peace having been put against them.

Had the arresting officer been called as a witness he would have known the nature of the crime, and those guilty of the graver offense could have been held and the others released on floaters. There is no prosecuting attorney in the police court to see to the collecting and presentation of evidence against persons coming up for trial there, and there is a general understanding that this should be looked after by the chief of police.

WORDEN CONVICTED

Of Murder in the First Degree.

NO RECOMMENDATION OFFERED

The Penalty is Death or Life Imprisonment—Sentence Will be Passed Monday.

WOODLAND, November 9.—Samuel D. Worden, one of the several American Railway Union men charged with having wrecked a Southern Pacific train during the strike in July last, causing the death of Engineer Clark and four United States soldiers, was today convicted of murder in the first degree. The jury offered no recommendation. The penalty is death or life imprisonment. The other accused train wreckers will be promptly tried.

The jury in the Worden case was warmly commended on all hands for the promptness with which it rendered a verdict of guilty in the first degree. His brother was not present and was surprised at the result, as the prevailing opinion was that the jury would be out a long time and probably hang. Worden watched the jury closely and listened to the reading of the verdict with much interest. When the court announced that sentence would be passed next Monday, Worden was quick to respond that if the jury could bring in such an unreasonable verdict he was ready to take his sentence now.

J. E. Strong, of counsel for the defense, says that he will move to set the verdict aside on the ground that the court has no jurisdiction. If that motion is denied, he will then ask for a new trial on the ground that the court erred in its instructions to the jury. Worden showed no signs of weakening during the concluding scenes, and was in a cheerful mood when he was removed to the custody of the sheriff.

Appleman and Hatch are said to be much worried on account of the prompt action of the jury in the Worden case. Their trial will begin on Monday, November 12th. Counsel for the defense have not decided whether or not they will demand a separate trial. The trial of Knox, Mullin and Compton will be called on November 20th. The remaining defendants have retained General Hart of Sacramento and E. E. Gaddis of Woodland.

THE METHODIST CHURCH.

Substantial Improvements and Additions to the Building.

About two weeks ago the Rev. D. H. Gillan, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, returned from Pine Ridge with a large quantity of lumber which had been donated to the church by the mills in the mountains, and since then a large force of carpenters have been busy constructing substantial additions and improvements to the church building.

Part of the north wall has been torn out, and a wing added 30x24 feet opening into the main hall of the church. It will be used as an audience room. There will also be a lower room 10x10 feet, to be used as a Sunday school class room, and a kindergarten room for Sunday school children of tender years. This room will be 18x25 feet, and so arranged that it can be opened into the main room by means of a sliding door. The whole of the improvements are expected to be completed within three or four weeks.

The carpenters have donated their work, and are under the superintendence of Louis Nelson, who has also donated his time. The debt remaining on the construction will be small, and will doubtless soon be liquidated.

No Chills. No Fever. No Cure. No Pay.

A sure, speedy and positive cure for all kinds of malarial fevers, such as chills, fevers, dumb ague, bilious fever, intermittent and remittent fever, etc., at the Golden Rule drug store, where all kinds of pure and fresh drugs are sold cheaper than anywhere else in Fresno; where a doctor of long experience and a graduate of the best medical schools of Europe and America will prescribe free of charge. Golden Rule drug store, 1730 Mariposa street, next to Bank of Central California.

F. A. Foin has had practical experience in his business since 1849, and if you have had trouble in getting good work done in tinning and plumbing, give him a call. All work warranted first-class, and reasonable charge. F. A. Foin & Son, Fresno street, below the old postoffice.

RIVERDALE NEWS.

Neighborhood Improvements and Local Politics.

Roadmaster Harding has begun work on the new road leading across the Laguna de Tache grant to Lemoore. It will considerably shorten the distance to that part of the country from Fresno.

John Applegarth and his son Bert of Oakland are visiting relatives in Riverdale and Armona this week.

A number of Libertyites met on Cole slough last Sunday and proceeded to have a good time fishing, talking politics, and destroying the contents of a number of lunch baskets and beer kegs.

Miss Amy Dewey is visiting at Armona.

Election day passed off quietly, but there was an appearance of suppressed excitement and anxiety betrayed by all parties. The Democrat and Republican tickets were tied at twenty-eight votes, and the Populists received thirty-one, a loss of one to the Democrats and four to the Republicans, and twelve to the Populists and of seventeen in the precinct. On the whole it is a little gain for the Republicans. The other two parties can attribute their variations to removals to and from the precincts.

Liberty precinct is getting quite a standing. Ninety-two votes in this isolated region is very good. S. C.

THE SUPERVISORS.

A LIVELY COMPETITION FOR THE HOSPITAL SUPPLIES.

The Bidders Convert the Board Room Into a Dry Goods Store.

The full board of Supervisors was in attendance yesterday when the question of county hospital supplies came up for consideration.

The morning session was consumed in disposing of bills, but when the hour of 2 p.m. arrived the supervisors' chamber was transformed into a drygoods store inside of five minutes.

Piles of shoes, overalls, coats, pants, blankets, hats and grocery samples were swiftly exposed to the best advantage on the tables, chairs, rails, window sills and every point of vantage. Then the agents of the competing firms smiled as they contemplated their work and began to "josh" each other about the awful bargains they were going to offer, as their fixed intent to down all rivals if they had to go broke to do it.

"Just look at these prices," said one gentleman, inviting Mr. Sayre's attention to the pants.

"One pair of my everlasting, self-repairing shoes can be guaranteed to last a family for three generations," said a second, as he caught Butler's eye resting on a pile of the articles mentioned.

"These coats of mine," said a third, with an appealing glance at Chairman Letcher, "are just the thing for the aged indigents. You can't cut 'em, tear 'em or rip 'em. When they're worn thread bare, which takes a hundred years at least, you can break 'em up and mend the roads with 'em. Everlasting wear, sir, that's the word."

A fourth amused himself by playful and disparaging allusions to the wares of his competitors, and altogether the scene was as exciting and hilarious as a well-frequented stand on Mulberry street, New York, when an emigrant ship arrives.

The climax was reached when the relative merits of the shoes were discussed. Mr. Sayre was skeptical. He had heard of cheap shoes with paper soles.

Alexander & Goodman's agent promptly took a knife and slashed the sole of a shoe right across from end to end. It passed muster, and he invited his competitors to go and do likewise.

Confusion reigned for several minutes, while the chairman vainly rapped for order, and told the roaring bidders that if they didn't behave he'd have them turned out.

The shoes finally went to Alexander & Goodman, as the agents of the rival concerns were unwilling to meet the cut, in the literal sense of the word. The same firm got most of the clothing contracts, the Kutner-Goldstein Company obtaining the remainder. The groceries were divided between the Kutner-Goldstein Company, H. Graff and Louis Einstein & Co.

The board departed this year from the old system of lumping the contracts, and required separate bids on every article, awarding the contracts on each to the lowest bidder. This saved the county considerable money, but led to no end of wordy war between the bidders.

The board will start for White's Bridge this morning to inspect the Jeff G. James road, and there will be no session till Monday.

THE MAIL WILL RECOVER.

Notwithstanding unfavorable symptoms, we still entertain a hope that the esteemed Stockton Mail will finally recover from the effects of the late campaign. It has not done so yet, but that would doubtless be expecting too much when its condition for several weeks past is taken into consideration. In its issue of Thursday the Mail printed an editorial setting forth its value as a political prophet, which showed very conclusively that in the capacity of political forecaster it had made a number of very able guesses. This was all well enough, but in our humble opinion the successful prophet did not add to his reputation by dumping a hodfull of mud upon his fellow (stuffed) prophets when he concluded his resume of political triumphs as follows:

And, greatest of all, the triumph of James H. Budd for the governorship against all kinds of slanders and villifications, the use of an enormous amount of money to secure his overthrow by fair means or foul and in the presence of a hundred newspapers assailing him for hire and not one great journal that would volunteer to explain or defend.

As the San Francisco Post is the only Democratic newspaper in the state which assailed Mr. Budd for hire or otherwise, this gentle insinuation is evidently aimed at the Republican press. We should like to know by what authority the Mail makes such an assertion. It is most assuredly false, and being so is a gratuitous insult to the profession of which the Mail is a member.

We do not believe that there were twenty newspapers in California, supporting either party, which took part in the campaign for hire. Speaking for itself THE REPUBLICAN opposed Mr. Budd and supported Mr. Estee because the latter stood as a representative of the political principles in which we believed, and for the further reason that we considered him to be the man best fitted for the governorship. For whatever service it may have done, THE REPUBLICAN received no reward or promise of reward of any sort whatever, and we believe the same to be true of practically the entire number of Republican newspapers in the state. As one of that number, THE REPUBLICAN resents the statement made by the Mail and denounces it as false and indecent.

In this connection it is appropriate to again call attention to the time-honored and detestable Democratic custom of setting up the cry of fraud and corruption, regardless of truth or consistency. It appears to have become a sort of fixed Democratic habit contracted during the long periods in which the Republican party was in power. It was invariably charged during that time that vast sums of money were gathered by the Republican party from government employes to be spent in corrupting voters. These charges as a matter of course had some foundation, but where one truth was stated a thousand lies kept it company.

And now that the boot is on the other leg, and the Democratic party has the entire machinery of government, what is the evidence upon which to base a comparison in this respect? It is, from an authoritative report of the civil service commission, that there has never before been so much trouble in regard to the levying of assessments upon government employes. For what purpose has this money been used? Certainly not for promoting the purity of elections or for founding missionary societies in the Hawaiian Islands. It has been used for the same purposes for which it has always been used, partly legitimate and partly for purposes which would not bear investigation. The only difference is that more of it has been secured by Democrats in violation of the law than by Republicans. Yet in the face of this fact we hear Democratic newspapers following the habit of their kind and howling about the corrupting influence of Republican money. It is possible that they would have gotten over this habit had they remained in power until the present generation had died off, but now that they have gone out for another quarter of a century, it is probably useless to expect a change in that respect.

However, as we have already remarked, it can be expected that the Stockton contemporary will eventually recover. Its condition is acute, rather than chronic.

HIGH SALARIES NOT NECESSARY.

On Saturday last the San Jose Herald paused to remark:

"Every intelligent voter will vote 'No' on senate constitutional amendment No. 20, which increases the pay of members of the legislature. They are paid more than they are worth as it is."

Will they ever be better if the state continues to pay them as they are paid now? How can good representatives be expected when they are not remunerated sufficiently during an entire session to repay them for their campaign expenses? If California pays cheap and nasty salaries, she must expect cheap and nasty legislators.—Sacramento Bee.

The legislative salary is rather small, to be sure, but we do not agree with the Bee that the calibre or character of that body would be materially changed by the proposed raise. The best men do not go to serve the state in the legislature for sixty days "for what there is in it." A majority of the reputable members go there because they hope to accomplish something in the interests of the people which will make their name kindly remembered, and, perhaps, to serve as a stepping-stone to some higher trust. So long as the salary covers the expenses they are satisfied, and serve their constituents just as faithfully as though they were receiving double the amount fixed at present.

As to that other class who go to Sacramento to make laws for anybody who will pay for them, and to blackmail those who do not want laws enacted, they would be no better satisfied with a salary of $1000 than they are with half the amount, nor is it at all likely that the numbers of that sort would be decreased by doubling the salary. On the other hand the number of able and reputable men who would accept nominations would not be largely increased by a higher salary. We think an increase o $200 in salary might be desirable, but the only benefit which would accrue from a greater increase would be to others than the taxpayers of the state.

The regeneration of the California legislature must be brought about by other means than higher salaries. The voters must do their duty in the primaries and nominating conventions, and the power of selecting their representatives must be taken out of the hands of the party machines. Reform in this line is already progressing, and the signs are all favorable for a rapid advance in that direction. It is too much, of course, to expect that party machines, entrenched as they are in strongholds of corruption, like San Francisco, will be at once destroyed, but there is abundant evidence that limitations have already been put upon their power, and that the people are becoming thoroughly awake to some of the imperative duties of citizenship which have been too long neglected.

This awakening of public sentiment, coupled with the growing independence of the voter regarding party lines, are the sources from which better political conditions will come, and whereby it will be made an honor to sit in the legislative halls at Sacramento—an honor which will be sought for, regardless of the amount of salary paid for the service.

THE REPUBLICAN is pleased to find something in the record of Attorney General Olney which can be commended. His opinion regarding the legal relations between employer and employe, brought out in the attempt of the receiver of the Reading railroad to compel its employes to withdraw from their brotherhood organizations, is certainly sound and in the line of good public policy. The right of labor to organize cannot be denied, and that being the case it must be protected in that right from any attempt on the part of organized capital to obrogate it. To deny it that protection would be to deliver it over to the mercy of capital, a condition of things which should not and could not prevail under a free government. It is inconceivable that the opinion of the Attorney General could have been anything else than what it was, but it was nevertheless unexpected from that source. It is the first act of this member of President Cleveland's cabinet which indicated that he had any idea of fundamental law aside from those most highly cherished by the trusts and corporations. Let the corporation attorney be given his due.

Disappearing From Spain.

Naturalists have noticed the gradual disappearance from Spain during the last half century of certain mammalian fauna which have long been familiar to the Iberian peninsula. The porcupine, which was common in Andalusia and Estramadura 50 years ago, has now entirely disappeared from those regions. It is still to be found in Algeria and Morocco, and the ichneumon, or meloncilio, which was once so very common and was the great favorite of all Spaniards before the introduction of the domestic cat, is now extremely rare. The Barbary ape, too, which is now only to be found in Gibraltar, where it is maintained with the greatest difficulty, was once very common in Spain.—London Globe.

Train and Cannon Ball Compared.

If you will sit down and figure on the subject a little while you will express less wonder when you hear of how the next "head end collision" smashed things up. A train running 75 miles an hour moves along at the rate of 110 feet per second and exerts an energy equal to 400 tons. In other words, the energy exerted is nearly twice as great as that shown by a 3,000 pound shot fired from a 100 ton Armstrong gun!—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE CALCIUM MAN'S VIEWS.

Stage Luminaries From a Hitherto Undiscussed Point of Vision.

"Actors are curious folks," observed the calcium light manipulator of one of the up town theaters to a reporter the other night. He was breathing upon the reflector and then polishing it carefully with a woolen rag.

"Curious in what respect?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, they're queer creatures in every way," returned the other. "Ought not I to know? I've been everything connected with a theater from usher to scene shifter, but Lord preserve me from being an actor! They get more money than most folks, but they never have a cent. Off the stage they're the biggest cranks in the world, and on the stage they're cranky enough, Lord knows. Now, look at me and my profession, for instance. Any one would think that I'd be in solid with the actors, seeing that I light 'em up in pretty poses and bring out the effective parts of the scenes. But, would you believe it, if these stage folks had their way I'd be bounced 20 times a week by the management. Everybody that looks it before the footlights kicks at me from the chorus to the star and from the second comedian to the supe.

"There's 200 gray hairs in my head, for which these serpentine dancers are responsible. They're kickers with a vengeance, on and off the boards. Now, I guess I know more about the effects of lighting than they do, but whenever they come hopping on the stage I never catch 'em soon enough to their notions. When they swing around in the butterfly dance, they start off different every time, and if the light glances off 'em for the eighth of a second they're wild with rage. It's their own fault, you know. They want to look sweet 100 seconds to the minute. Then they complain that I catch 'em in the eyes and blind 'em, whereas it's the continual changing of their regulation poses that rattles me.

"Then, when it comes to the chorus, oh, my! If they had things their way, the leading lady wouldn't be illuminated at all. There isn't one of 'em that doesn't want me to show 'em up for a full minute for the benefit of their gentlemen friends in the audience. They besiege me every night for favors in this way, and I promise—oh, yes, I promise I'll light 'em. But do I do it?"

The calcium man rubbed his forefinger and thumb in a suggestive way. "If there's a little half dollar fee forthcoming, they get a flash for 2½ seconds. No fee, no flash!"—New York Recorder.

An Anecdote of Mr. Childs.

This incident has been related of Mr. Childs, and I believe it has never been printed. Stopping one of his head employees one day, Mr. Childs said: "You are not looking well. I think you must be working too hard."

"I am not feeling very well, Mr. Childs, that is a fact," was the answer, "but I guess I will be all right in a short time."

"How would you like to take a trip to Europe?" said Mr. Childs smiling pleasantly.

"Well enough, sir," was the response, "but I cannot afford it."

"You can afford it," said Mr. Childs, taking him by the arm, "if I pay your expenses and pay your salary to your family while you are gone, can't you?"

The result was the man spent two months in Europe and returned completely restored to health.

"That was one of the best investments I ever made," chuckled Mr. Childs when the matter was called to his attention. "Why, Mr. —— returned so much improved in health that he could do twice as much work as he could before he left. You see, I was the real gainer by the transaction."

One of Mr. Childs' characteristics was that he never seemed to take any credit to himself for doing a kind act. —New York Press.

A Curious Maine Law.

A curious statue exists in the state of Maine, which banishes criminals from the state for transgressing the law there. This may operate well enough for Maine, provided it can be enforced there, but how is it to operate upon the other states of the Union, who are thus converted into a kind of Botany Bay for the reception of Maine's criminals?—Boston Herald.

A Soft Answer.

"Edith, I saw that policeman speak to you. That's the third policeman I've seen speaking to you this morning. I can't allow that." "No, ma'am. But the policemen always do admire baby so. They can't 'elp stopping and talking about 'im. They all say as they never see such a fine child."—Spare Moments.

How Ice Forms.

On the surface of a river or water exposed to the air ice is made by the coldness of the air against the top of the water. When water is cooled thus, it at first shrinks in size, and therefore sinks below the less cold water next to it. This in turn, gets cooler, shrinks and sinks, and so on, till all the water from top to bottom is lowered to 4 degrees C. above zero. As soon as the water gets colder than this it begins to swell, and therefore no longer sinks as before, but stays on the top, and if the cooling still goes on till zero C. is reached it begins to turn into ice. When by the colder air atop of it, as much heat is taken away from this water at zero as would have raised a pound of water at 79 degrees C., a pound of ice is formed; when twice as much, two pounds, and so on, till, if the air above the water keeps cold enough, the whole of the water will in time be made into ice.—Exchange.

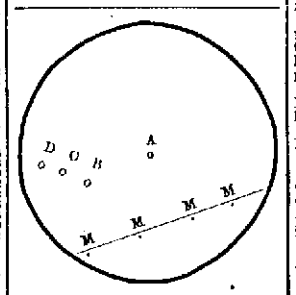
TRANSIT OF MERCURY

A RARE AND INTERESTING ASTRONOMICAL EVENT.

It can be Seen Today by Anyone who Possesses a Small Telescope.

Those Fresnoans who take an interest in subjects outside the domain of dollars and politics may see a rare and curious sight if they will point a small telescope at the sun any time between the hours of 8 o'clock this morning and 1 p.m. It will take sharp eyes and a pretty good field glass to show the tiny black spot which represents the planet Mercury passing between the earth and the sun. To prevent any mistake the accompanying plan of the sun's disc, as it will appear through a field glass this morning, is furnished for the benefit of the readers of THE REPUBLICAN.



TRANSIT OF MERCURY NOVEMBER 10TH, 7.40 A.M. TO 1.49 P.M.

The group of spots on the left and the solitary spot near the center are the ordinary solar spots, and a glass which will not show these quite distinctly is of no avail to look for the planet, which is far smaller than any of them. As the plan was made with a small hand telescope one inch in diameter, and fifteen inches long, it is quite certain that anything larger than this will reveal the tiny stranger following the track shown by the letter M on the dotted line. The view represents the sun's disc as seen inverted, or upside down; therefore if the spots are not seen as here depicted, all that is necessary is to turn the paper upside down. The eye should be protected by smoked or colored glass while using the telescope.

Mercury is one of the smallest of the planets, and its orbit is so close to the sun that it is rarely seen by inhabitants of this world. A great German astronomer who died at the age of 80 years, said that he had but one regret. He had never been able to get a glimpse of the planet Mercury in his long life, though he had looked for it year after year, early and late.

The planet can in fact only be seen with the naked eye on rare occasions when it is at its greatest elongation; that is, when it makes the greatest possible angle with the earth and the sun. This angle rarely exceeds 20 degrees, and consequently the planet rises, under the most favorable circumstances, only about an hour before the sun, or sets about an hour after it. The strong twilight hides it from human gaze 300 days in the year, and even on favorable occasions it can only be seen for a brief period, say twenty minutes or half an hour, amid the mists of the horizon. It appears as a small but brilliant star of rosy hue. Though a telescope at these times it looks like a tiny crescent moon.

When the planet transits the disc, as it does this morning, it is as near to the earth as possible, and subtends an angle of 10 seconds of arc. As the sun's disc averages 1920 seconds the relative apparent dimentions are 492 to 1, so that on a disc two inches in diameter to represent the sun mercury would be represented by a pin dot one hundredth of an inch in diameter.

There are about a dozen transits of Mercury in a century and the present is the last in this century. The transits of Mercury always occur in the early part of May and November, because it is at these times that the earth passes the line of the planet's nodes. The present transit is a repetition of that of November 10, 1848, and will occur again on November 10, 1907.

The best way to see the transit is to fasten a blackened paper cone to the eye piece of the telescope and project the image of the sun on a sheet of paper held at the base of the cone. With a glass fifteen inches long the paper should be held about eight inches from the eye piece to receive the image. The telescope should be mounted on a stand and focussed on any distant object before being directed to the sun. The planet cannot be seen with the naked eye today, even through a smoked glass. The disc is too small.

COMMODORE HOPKINS.

Memorial on the Services of an Able Officer.

The Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, from headquarters in San Francisco, has issued a memorial on the occasion of the death of Commodore William Evelyn Hopkins, who died at Ross Valley, Cal., October 24, 1894. The memorial recites his history and his public services in the United States navy.

Commodore Hopkins was a brother of Dr. Henry St. George Hopkins of this city. He was born in Virginia in 1821, and spent the greater part of his life in the navy, beginning as midshipman and ending as commodore. He saw service in the coast surveys, and during the civil war was in the Gulf of Mexico blockade squadron, and was instrumental in the capture of several blockade runners. He retired from active service in 1883, then being 62 years of age, and was consequently 73 at the time of his death.

FRESNO CHESS CLUB.

Opening of the Classification Series of Games.

The members of the Fresno Chess and Checker club commenced playing the series of classification games at their quarters in the Fiske building last night.

The classification committee, H. H. Hotaling and R. L. Peeler, having in view the unsatisfactory character of the arbitary classification previously established, submitted a report which was adopted. It recommended that every member play an official game with every other member of the club, and that the half of the members winning the greatest number of games be known as class 2 and that the other half be known as class 3, providing that any number of games may be played on an evening or at any other time, so as to facilitate classification. By this arrangement the players will be duly placed in their class within a month or so, where the old arrangement might have consumed six months at least.

The longest game last night was between S. S. Wright and R. L. Peeler. The opening was the giuoco piano, and Mr. Peeler resigned on the forty-first move.

H. H. Hotaling and J. E. Nicholson played a severely contested game with the king's bishop's opening. Mr. Hotaling won, having a king and advanced pawn against king.

W. M. Williams won from A. H. Rae-Brown, after a hard contest of two hours, with irregular opening.

H. M. Johnston won two games from Dr. W. T. Maupin. The Doctor has been hitherto in the same class with Hotaling, Meux and other strong players, and Johnston was proportionately elated. The Doctor attributes his defeat to the after effects of the election and the demoralizing influences of the Wilson bill.

J. M. Collier and J. J. Seymour played two games which went to the credit of Seymour.

W. H. Ingles succumbed to Hotaling, who wound up the evening's work by winning a game from Major S. S. Wright.

Colonel H. A. Trevelyan, who is reckoned the strongest player in the club, has yet put in an appearance at the tourney, and there are several new members who are anxious for a tilt with him.

John D. Morgan, R. H. Elder and George Cosgrave competed in the checker division, with the honors about even.

HIGH SCHOOL SOCIAL.

THE FIRST ONE IS A MARKED SUCCESS.

An Enjoyable Evening Spent—Professor T. L. Heaton's Address. An Excellent Program.

The high school pupils had their first social of the season last night at the K street building, and as usual with such parties, an enjoyable evening was spent. Last year the high school gave several socials, which were by many considered the center attractions of the social season. Last year the pupils acted by themselves, but this year they are partly controlled by the teachers.

The Board of Education has given them permission to hold their socials in the K street building on condition that the teachers have a voice in the affairs. So last night, when 11 o'clock came, Professor Heaton ordered the medley to be played. There was a murmur of general disapproval among the merrymakers, who were just beginning to enjoy themselves, but Mr. Heaton remained firm, saying that 11 o'clock was late enough for all good young people to go home.

The program last night was an excellent one. Miss Genevieve Swain rendered one of her instrumental solos. She is gaining quite a reputation as a musician. The instrumental duet by Misses Elsie Smith and May Jansen was also fine. Miss Rebecca Williams' recitation of "Miss Maloney on the Chinese Question" was well received. Miss Mabel Caine sang a vocal solo very acceptably. The rendition of "Kentucky Philosophy" by Hallie Polby was enjoyed by all. The vocal duet by Cheney Packard and Mr. Peet was well done.

Professor Heaton delivered a short address, in which he talked of the cultivation of the social natures of man. First, the object of life is enjoyment and pleasure. Second, sociability has much to do with success in life. A doctor may be well educated and more capable than his fellow doctors, yet if he is unsociable and disagreeable among people, he cannot succeed. Coming directly down to the high school socials, the Professor said that in school the pupils of the different classes do not become acquainted with each other. At the socials this defect is remedied and they are benefited by each other's society. The socials should be held once a month, which is often enough for young people who are attending school. One hour should be devoted to literary exercises, one to social conversation, and one to dancing, games, etc.

An enjoyable feature of these socials is that post-graduates, those who have graduated from the high school several years ago, can here meet with their teachers and schoolmates, and talk of the good times gone by.

It is also the intention to invite the parents of the scholars, so that they may become acquainted with each other and the teachers and the pupils of the school.

Some of the scholars intend to have Mr. Heaton dance at the next social, so that he will not close up so early. The more intimate friends of the Professor say that they will not succeed.

FOR SCIENTIFIC USES.

Professor Heaton Has a Coop Full of Bats.

A colony of bats have been making their home in the walls of the C street school building, getting in through the gratings on the outside of the walls. They were found undesirable tenants and the janitor, Mr. Hand, constructed a frame covered with wire screen, for their capture. This he placed over the opening, having a slide prepared by which he could close the trap at will.

When dusk approached the bats came out by dozens, but were badly disappointed at not being able to gain the open air. Several hundred were captured, and when morning came the mass of struggling, squeaking little animals presented an interesting sight. Mr. Heaton took them, and will use them to good advantage in the science work now being carried on in the city schools.

Democratic Opinion of the Populists

From the Visalia Times.

The Populists have only elected five congressmen in the United States and have not carried a state in the union. The silver party carried Nevada, but if it will do the Pops any good to claim that as a victory for their organization they are entitled to what comfort they can get from it. The disintegration of the third party from this time forward will be rapid, and in 1896 the voters who constitute the People's Party will be found in either the Democratic or Republican ranks, where they should have been this year.

Dr. Yancey Dead.

Dr. M. V. Yancey died yesterday morning at his home on Clark street. He had been sick several months. Two years ago he was the Republican candidate for coroner.

THE CITY SCHOOLS.

PROGRESS OF THE WORK FOR THE TERM.

More Time, Additional Apparatus, Teachers and Rooms are Needed.

Fresno's citizens have reason to feel proud of their schools, which are among the best conducted in the state. This is due to several reasons, but the two chief ones are the efficiency of the teachers and the general spirit of enthusiasm which pervades the school rooms. Professor Heaton is untiring in his work as superintendent, and much credit is due to him for the high standard which is recognized at the universities.

There are about 1300 pupils altogether in the city schools. Of these 160 are in the high school. This is the largest enrollment of pupils in the history of the city. There is urgent need for more teachers; for, although the number of scholars has been increasing for the past three years, yet during that time there has been no increase in the number of teachers.

In the high school some classes number over fifty, which is too many for one teacher to handle and do good work. As the matter stands now, however, there is no room for another teacher, and there will not be room until the new high-school building, which has been just going to be built for the past four years, shall be completed.

There is a demand that German be introduced into the high school course, since no modern language is taught there, as is required for entrance to the State University.

More apparatus has been furnished for both physics and chemistry classes, and very good work is done. The classes are so large that one-half the pupils come in the morning at 8 o'clock to recite, and others remain after school in the afternoon.

The senior, or graduating class, numbers thirty, which is larger than any previous graduating class. Yesterday they began a debate on multiple voting, which will be finished on Monday. This class is enthusiastic in its work, and such is also the case with the other classes.

As to the lower grades outside of the high school it may be urged that there is need of more teachers. Many of the grades are crowded and there is need of more facilities. There are seven new teachers this year, and all are doing good work.

One very serious fault with the Fresno school system is that the terms are too short. There should at least be nine and one-half months of school in order to finish the required work. But heretofore there have not been nine months. It was called nine months, but substracting the five legal holidays and institute week there have only been eight and one-half months of school. This year, however, school will continue during the institute week. Last year the board of education had money enough for a half month longer, and will have more this year. If there is money enough the sentiment is that the city should keep her schools running long enough to complete the required work, and not have a vacation so long that it will set the pupils back a whole month in their work at the beginning of the next term, as all the teachers report is the case.

ELECTION RETURNS.

Very Small Changes Since Yesterday's Figures.

There has not been much change in the election returns in this county since yesterday's report as published in this paper. The most important item is that Risley, for superior judge, has made a gain by the returns from Watts valley, and is now about fifty votes ahead of Carter, and is generally conceded to be elected. The Watts valley returns were divided nearly half and half between Democrats and Populists, while the Republicans received less than half a dozen votes in forty-five. However, Scott run five ahead of his ticket. No further changes need be expected till the official returns are counted next week.

In yesterday's Republican an error in adding placed Moodey's majority over Guard at 717. The plurality is about 1000.

A recapitulation shows that the Democrats fell below the Populists on more than half the county ticket. Some of the instances are the following: For superior judges, both Graham and Harris were defeated by Risley and Van Meter. Elmore came out third in the race for county clerk. Bedford for surveyor was far behind Shepherd, the Populist nominee. Austin for auditor ran behind Shelton. Lowell for public administrator got more votes than Walden, the Democratic nominee. Cartwright on the Populist ticket was ahead of Kenyon. Long was elected over Stephens for coroner. For senator Fowler went ahead of Mordecai. Gilbert beat Alford in the county for congress.

Thus it is seen that the Populists would have captured the most of the offices if the Republicans had been out of the way.

The Raisin Shortage.

Colonel Forsyth said yesterday that the raisin shortage in this county will be much larger than previous estimates, and will amount at the lowest to 760 carloads. Freight Agent Markham estimates it as high as 1000 carloads. This should ensure good prices for raisins in the case of those growers who can afford to hold them.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Fun at a Singing Class.

Professor Griffith of Chicago opened a class for voice culture and part singing in the social hall of the Presbyterian church last night. The need of such instruction was shown by the prompt response of about forty persons to the invitation to take a trial lesson. It is estimated that the greater number of those present will take the course of thirty lessons, and that the number of pupils may easily reach 80 or 100. The first lesson consisted chiefly of vocal gymnastics and cultivation of the muscles of respiration. The fun created was considerable, as many of the pupils were taught for the first time that they had a back bone, and that other muscles are called into play in correct singing beside those of the throat.

PREMIER AND HORSEMAN.

Nonconformists Charge That Rosebery Has Degraded English Statesmanship.

A ridiculous attack has been made upon Lord Rosebery because he happened to be the fortunate owner of a Derby winner. The word has gone forth to every large and small bethel that "the nonconformist conscience will not long tolerate a racing premier." Every tub thumping Stiggins has howled at the noble earl for daring to say in a speech to the Eton college boys that he was not ashamed of owning a good horse. Even the newspapers which regularly quote the odds have joined in the outcry, and every mail brings his lordship hundreds of letters from meddling zealots, warning him that his patronage of horse racing is daily driving many souls to perdition. Radical parsons and puritanical lay partisans have deluged the Liberal headquarters at Westminster with epistolary protests to the same effect, and there is talk of convening "a national convention" for the purpose of protesting against "the shameful degradation of English statesmanship," from all of which it will be gathered that Great Britain has entered into one of those periodical virtuous spells which have long been the scorn and wonder of foreigners.

Lord Rosebery is said to be amazed and indignant at the outburst and to have threatened to retire in disgust from public life. But this is all nonsense, because, after all, the present outcry is merely a louder repetition of that which occurred when, with the commencement of the flat racing season, the puritans saw that the premier had no intention of quitting the turf. Besides he ought to know perfectly well that the nonconformists are simply suffering from a temporary moral spasm, and that in the estimation of the vast majority of people he has gained a new title to leadership by winning the Derby.

All the party managers admit today that Rosebery's character as an honorable, highly successful sportsman, indorsed as it has been by the victory of the horse upon which the masses had put their money, will stand him in good stead with thousands of electors who do not care a cent for politics, but vote according to impulse.—London Cor. New York Sun.

A LANDLORD'S CONSCIENCE.

Lord Tweedmouth Shows What an Easy Thing His Is to Get Along With.

Lord Tweedmouth, until recently Mr. Edward Marjoribanks, chief Liberal whip, has just compounded satisfactorily with his conscience, and some Radical newspapers are praising his nobility of soul and fidelity to principle, uncommon in the ordinary mortal and rare in a peer of the realm. It seems that his father, old Lord Tweedmouth, invested tens of thousands of pounds, a part of the huge profits of his brewery, in land in the highlands of Scotland, and thereafter, as he was consumed with a passion for deer forests, in order to increase his stock of game he gradually cleared his land of industrious sheep farmers and small crofter tenants until he was able to drive for miles through his estate, known as Gisachan, in his house, without meeting a single human being or passing one inhabited house.

The present lord, as a strong Radical, has always been opposed to that sort of thing. In fact, he is actually a member of the royal commission appointed to inquire into and report upon the depopulation of the Scottish highlands by landlords of the stamp of the late Lord Tweedmouth. Conscience and political expediency, therefore, alike forbade a member of the Radical government to continue a policy which had reduced to the poorhouse or sent to the plains of Manitoba and the shores of British Columbia hundreds of sturdy Scotsmen and Scotswomen. The natural and proper course for Lord Tweedmouth to follow would have been to reverse his father's policy and bring the people back to the land. But that would have been a sinful waste of the enormously increased value of the property as one of the best sporting estates in Scotland. So his lordship has decided to sell Gisachan as it stands, which, while easing his conscience, fills his pockets with gold gained out of the spoliation and expatriation of honest men.—Glasgow Letter.

A Clever Plan.

A clever hostess at a recent dinner did away with the strolling about to hunt up name cards on reaching the dining room by providing each man with a card, on which was a little plan of the table and two crosses against the covers laid for him and the lady he took out.—New York Commercial.

She Plays Skittles.

The ex-queen of Hanover is passionately fond of the game of skittles and plays every day during her stay at Munden, where the Duke of Cumberland had a skittle ground laid for her use in the park. The ladies in waiting are her majesty's partners in the game.—London Million.

Mary Anderson Navarro.

Word comes from Nice that Mary Anderson Navarro, who is staying there, lives very quietly, neither receiving nor paying visits. The cause assigned is very delicate health, a condition, in fact, bordering on the dreaded and obstinate one of nervous prostration.—Exchange.

The Extreme Northwest

By its famous mountains and up the inside water route to Alaska's frozen fields, mighty icebergs and wondrous glaciers.

Amazement, dumb astonishment, reflections upon the Infinite are created by the astounding scenes that spread out in vast panoramas of tremendous freaks of nature before the eyes of visitors to these marvelous regions.

Its rivers, falls, icy mountains, seal fisheries, towns, Indians and great variety of interesting features are pictured and fully described; thence returning the excursionist is conducted up Frasier river, through British America, along the Canadian Pacific Railway, over lofty eminences, down frightful canyons, and on to the famous Hot Springs at Banff, where cloud-land and fairy-land are united in marvelous display of sky soaring scenery. Turning back the excursionists are carried over the ocean to Hawaii, and introduced to the palace, parks and natives of Honolulu. Thence east to the coast again, and over the Cascade range, to places where it is midnight in the canyons when it is midday on the mountain peaks, along the Northern Pacific Railway, by charming lakes and strange formations, into the dreary and tumultuous regions of the Upper Missouri river.

A long Pictured Bluffs and by Immense Waterfalls.

Out of this land of diversified charms, our passengers are carried by GLIMPSES OF AMERICA into the greater wonderlands of the Yellowstone National Park, fully photographed and described in the succeeding number.
